

Conversing With God - Can I Speak?

I: Can I speak to You O God?

Can I speak to one that I cannot see, that I cannot hear or even comprehend?

If I should speak, are You really there to listen?

And if You are, out of all the people in the world, do You really care about me?

No one around me would readily listen when I speak...so why should You?

I am afraid to speak, afraid of what You might say in return. Will You judge me harshly?

Can I speak to the one who created me?

God: Can I speak to your troubled heart? Will you let Me in? Will you give me a chance?

When I speak you block me out, yet I shall never stop trying.

Can I speak to the world through you? Are you ready to speak for me?

O how I wish you could hear my voice in the calm of a gentle summer's breeze. Or in the quiet of falling snow. Can you hear me in a baby's laugh, in a widow's cry, in a frightened scream, in the prisoner's silence, in eyes of the poor, in the heart of your enemy?

I am all around you speaking in infinite and unexpected ways. Through every soul, whether they believe in me or not, I speak through every soul. Can you hear Me in every one you meet? Do you ignore My cry, My laugh, My anger, My longing, My love?

In the joy that you feel & when you feel as if all hope is lost...I Am speaking to you!

In the quiet of creation & in the chaos of everyday... I Am speaking to you!

Where you dance for joy & where you hide in despair...I Am speaking to you!

Whenever you speak...I Am speaking with you!
